Scout & Zoe's Story:

We've been struggling to find a treat for Scout as she has EPI (Exocrine Pancreatic Insufficiency) that wouldn't aggravate her EPI symptoms. We currently give her pancreas enzymes to incubate each meal and found that has stabilized her symptoms. Even though we've adjusted this as a new way of life, incubating the enzymes daily is time consuming. However when we added K-9 Kraving frozen Pancreas Patties as a supplement, we noticed a major change. It's definitely a game changer. We also give it to Scout as a training treat without any worries of incubating time or any bad effects. She even gained more weight. We also tried the Green Tripe Cookies, which both our pups Scout & Zoe (non EPI) love!!

In this day and age finding a perfect food can be difficult and kind of scary. Between unbalanced foods and the prices I felt really overwhelmed on my hunt for what would work best for my GSDs. Luckily, a friend told me about K-9 Kraving and I

K-9 Kraving has impressed me again. My 7-month old Presa Canario decided to eat 1/2 tennis ball. After three days he threw it up. Unfortunately that's when the issues started. He started bleeding out both ends. He had
